

Thomas H. Citron

Thomas H. Citron is the Managing Partner of Citron & Citron, leading the firm into an era driven by technology and rapid change. He is an active trial attorney well respected in the community. He oversees the preparation of all cases as though they will be resolved by a jury, but with an eye to negotiating a fair resolution through alternative dispute resolution when appropriate and in the best interests of the client.

Tom has been in practice for more than 20 years and he has been lead trial counsel in numerous cases involving a broad range of issues including professional negligence, products defects, public transportation and habitability. His clients include individuals, private business entities, and insurance carriers who have been sued or are suing responsible parties. Insurance defense in all of the firm's practice areas continues to be a large portion of his practice.

Tom takes pride in overseeing the work of a strong team of experienced and respected attorneys with diverse work backgrounds and assuring that each client receives the benefits of the unique expertise of the attorneys at the firm best suited to the client's needs.

Education:

- Pomona College, B.A. (1991)
- Western State University, J.D. (1995)

Admissions:

- California State Bar (1996)
- United States District Court for the Central District of California
- United States District Court for the Eastern District of California

Representative Professional Recognitions/Affiliations/Activities:

- American Board of Trial Advocates ("ABOTA") Member for Over 7 Years
- Instructor at the ABOTA Trial School
- Arbitrator/Mediator, Los Angeles Superior Court for the Northwest District
- Settlement Officer, Los Angeles Superior Court for the Northwest District
- Member of CLM, DRI, ASCDC and other professional organizations

Published Opinions:

- Penilla v. Westmont Corp. (2016) 3 Cal.App.5th 205